

Patent Pending, Tested and Proven Design

Last Updated Saturday, 01 December 2007

The electric tractor concept has been in the development and testing phase for over 4 years.

We now have a patent pending proven design.

Edmond Electric Company Ltd. has a patent pending for a multi-function electric tractor, including a specially designed cutter deck. The company is interested in working with manufacturers and investors for the production of this multifunction lawn tractor

The frame and body of the tractor shown in the photos was purchased from a third party, and the unique features of the Edmond Electric Conversion were incorporated into this frame and body for the purposes of development of the prototype.